Why use a moisturiser AND a night cream?

Great skin is not simply a matter of DNA — your daily habits significantly impact what you see in the mirror, and choosing which products to use can be confusing.

When you go outside during the day, your skin is under tremendous environmental stress, so you need a moisturiser that provides environmental protection. Night creams help rejuvenate the skin while you sleep. At night the metabolism of the cells close to the surface of your skin accelerates, and night creams are formulated differently to utilise this increased blood and oxygen supply during the night.

Combining the two as a day and night cream is one of the easiest and best investments you can make for your skin.

Good to know

A good night cream is a must to keep your skin from ageing prematurely. Skin cells are more active when you sleep and need a high-moisture and well-nourished diet at night.
